

WILDLIFE WEDNESDAYS WITH FOCRG

Coal Tit

This little bird has a distinctive grey back and black cap, with a slender bill well adapted to feeding in conifers. It is also a fan of peanut feeders in gardens. Although it is spotted less often than some of our other tits, there are a few residing in the Rec!

Chaffinch

After the Wren, the Chaffinch is the most common bird that breeds in the UK. It loves to munch on insects and seeds. They can be found along the woodland paths around the Rec, and with their loud call you will often hear them before you see them. While the male has a bold rosy chest, the female is brown, both however have the distinctive white flash on the wings that you will spot as they flit away.

Goldfinch

Perhaps the most splendid finch - though the Chaffinch and Bullfinch will disagree - the Goldfinch is easily identifiable with a bright red face and yellow wing patch. It is often in sociable groups, so if you see one in the Rec, keep an eye out for more!
